FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

bit-x-bit Welcomes New E-Discovery Process Manager and Expands E-Discovery Team

PITTSBURGH, April 25, 2011—Daniel J. Vogel joins bit-x-bit as E-Discovery Process Manager, bringing with him more than nine years of experience in electronic discovery, collection processing, review and production. Mr. Vogel will head bit-x-bit's team in processing, searching, and producing ESI, and also be responsible for managing Sfile, bit-x-bit's hosted e-discovery review platform.

According to Susan Ardisson, Esq., Chief Executive Officer for bit-x-bit, "Our ESI processing work has more than doubled this past year. With the addition of Dan, and his depth of experience in the field, we will be able to meet the expanded demand for ESI processing and review capability, and to bring the same level of expert service that our clients have come to expect from us."

Mr. Vogel joins bit-x-bit from Cohen & Grigsby, P.C. where he served as the firm's Litigation Technology Specialist for the past five years, managing all aspects of the firm's electronic discovery work, including data collection, processing, review and production. While at Cohen, he also oversaw the evaluation, selection, and implementation of new litigation support and e-discovery review software. Prior to Cohen, Mr. Vogel was the Electronic Litigation Support Specialist for Dickie, McCamey, & Chilcote, P.C. for three years. While at Dickie, he served as e-discovery project manager, and was the firm's founding member of the Litigation Support Department.

"I am thrilled to be joining bit-x-bit, which has consistently been on the cutting edge of forensic and e-discovery technology since its inception. I look forward to bringing my experience in this evolving industry to this talented team, as well as to helping to expand our ability and capacity to serve clients of all sizes," remarked Mr. Vogel.

Mr. Vogel received his Bachelor's of Science in Business Management from the Schreyer Honors College of Pennsylvania State University in 2002, and was a founding member of PSU's National Society of Collegiate Scholars. Mr. Vogel is also a member of the Sprout Fund Seed Award Committee and Co-founder and instructor with the Academy of South Side Oil Painting School.
